Summer camp 2026

Niños con Autismo de San Miguel de Allende is pleased to present our newest initiative: our very first Summer Program. This program was created with the intention of offering children a space for learning through play, designed from a neuroaffirming, respectful, and deeply human perspective. It is a place where every child can explore, create, and connect at their own pace while feeling safe, supported, and valued.

At the same time, this Summer Program serves as a learning and mentorship opportunity for volunteers, particularly students in related fields who may one day become part of our professional team.

In this way, the program not only has a positive impact on the children who participate, but also contributes to the development of compassionate, ethical professional practices that are aligned with respect for neurodiversity.

General Objective

To design and implement a group-based intervention program centered on play and social interaction, enabling children to develop and generalize skills within a neuroaffirming environment, while also providing opportunities for observation, training, and supervised practice for therapists and volunteers.

Objectives for Children

- Provide a therapeutic experience that differs from traditional sessions by offering longer, more flexible periods of support.
- Foster meaningful interaction with peers in a safe, respectful, and neuroaffirming environment.
- Promote the generalization of skills through play and structured, meaningful activities.
- Support the development of individualized goals within a playful and functional context.

Objectives for Therapists

- Observe children in a setting beyond the therapy room, enriching clinical understanding and assessment.
- Provide guidance, mentorship, and learning opportunities for students in training.
- Strengthen and expand professional skills within a dynamic, collaborative, and naturalistic environment.

- A designated space for caregivers accompanying children who require support with toileting, diaper changes, or other personal care needs.
- Transportation for the field trips.
- Access to a farm, orchard, or another venue related to the program's central theme for the group visit. The initial proposal is to visit the ranch owned by one of our participating families, which includes an orchard and farm animals that the children can safely interact with.
- Eight volunteers who are students of psychology, physical therapy, speech-language therapy, occupational therapy, or related fields.
- Meals for staff members.
- Staff uniforms (T-shirts and caps).
- A cleaning staff member available to remain on-site during the three-hour daily program throughout the three-week session.
- Materials and supplies needed for the program's activities.
